

Call for Participants

FESTIVAL OF WOMEN

Free Drama and story-telling workshops for females based in South Tyneside in collaboration with Workie Ticket Theatre Company & the Women Of Tyneside Project. Supported by Tyne and Wear Archives and Museums.

Are you based in South Tyneside and looking to get involved in a new, fun project, learning new skills, sharing your stories and representing women in South Tyneside?

Come along for 8 x 2hrs of drama and storytelling workshops to share your stories and explore the theme of 'Female Relationships in Unexpected Places.'

When and where?

We are holding 8 workshops at Women's Health in South Tyneside (WHiST) Salus House, 33, Mile End Rd, South Shields NE33 1TA.

The Workshops will take place on Thursday afternoons 1pm – 3pm starting on May 2nd 2019.

Anyone who needs to leave workshops early for school run (or other) are free to do so.

With who?

JoJo and Lindsay are two experienced female drama facilitators from Workie Ticket Theatre Company. Workie Ticket is a female led Theatre Company who create opportunities for women and create platforms for women's voices.

About the project

This project is part of the Festival of Women curated by Tyne and Wear Archives & Museums. We have received funding to offer these workshops for free in a bid to represent women of South Tyneside in a performance and create something that will live on in South Shields Museum archives. A small show back/performance will be scheduled at the end of June.

Contact Lindsay to express your interest or for any more information on the project and workshops at workietickettheatre@gmail.com

www.workietickettheatre.com